APPOINTMENT OF WILSON FOUGHT BY FARM LEADER

Whitehurst Hurls Defiance at Aspiration of Farm Labor Leader.

CLAIMS UNQUALIFIED

Farm Leader Declares He is Tricked in Naming of Vocational Head.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 7.—Charging that he had been tricked into supporting George Wilson for superintendent of vocational agriculture that he might be silenced and thus prevented from opposing the league leader later for president of the state A. and M. college, John A. Whitehurst, president of the state board of agriculture, issued a caustic statement Sunday, hurling defiance at those seeking to obtain Wilson's appointment.

"Last Friday morning I learned from a reliable source that Mr. Wilson never intended to accept the position which was tendered him by the vocational board, but that it was only a ruse connected with other propaganda that was made public about the same time to silence me in my position against him as president of the college," Whitehurst said.

Will Work for Students
"I cannot give my consent and will do everything I can to prevent George Wilson from becoming president of A. and M. college, feeling that he is not capable of filling the position, that he has no degree, that he is not temperamentally fitted, and that it would be a great mistake," he added.

"It has always been my purpose where it did not seriously conflict with my judgment and principle to uphold the hands of the governor," he continued. "I do not believe that any man, either to gratify his personal desire or political advancement, should attempt to promote himself or demand an appointment to a place that he is not fully qualified by training and degree to fill."

"I am not a college man myself, but I believe I know enough about the ethics of the profession, the ideals of the students, and the desires of the parents of the students who attend a great institution like A. and M. college that has been thirty years in building, officered by some of the best school men of the country, not to vote for a man that did not have the degree which he sought to confer upon the youth of our state," Whitehurst said.

Whitehurst indicated that he felt Governor Walton had broken faith with him in the matter of Wilson's appointment.

He was Misinformed.
"I did not believe until last Friday afternoon that it was the governor's intention to make George Wilson president of the A. and M. college," he explained.

"Early in January when the matter was being agitated about putting Wilson at the head of the college I felt I had definite assurance from the governor that he would not be placed there," he added.

"Some fifteen days ago the governor called me to his office and said that he desired my assistance in locating Mr. Wilson in a subordinate place on the vocational board, saying that he had promised the legion members of the house and senate not to put him at the head of the board, knowing that the governor felt he must take care of him in some place, I consented to lend my assistance in giving him this position, which I felt he was capable of filling, feeling fully assured that it was being done to save A. and M. college," Whitehurst said.

This meeting with the governor, he added, now seemed to have been only a ruse to trick him into seeming to endorse Wilson, that he might be prevented later from opposing the league's elevation to the presidency of the great farm school.

Whitehurst said he was convinced of this thimble press accounts appeared in regard to an alleged "peace" meeting with the American Legion.

Until late last week, he said, he had never believed that Governor Walton would go so far as to attempt to place Wilson in a position of such responsibility as that of president of the Stillwater college, the state's second greatest educational institution.

EDITORIAL

Of course there is no doubt about the extra levy of 10 mills for school purposes being voted Tuesday, but we feel that not a single vote ought to be cast against this. If you are inclined to vote against this measure, think of the following:

1. The levy is the same that has been voted year after year, and this will not cause any increase of taxes over what we have been paying.

2. The children of Ada are entitled to as good educational advantages as those of other communities.

3. We have provided buildings in which the children are to be trained. It would be poor economy to let these buildings stand unused for eight or nine months of the year.

4. Ada expects to grow into a large city. No family with children to educate is going into a community that does not have good schools and an educational atmosphere. Regardless of the educational attainments of a parent, opportunities are wanted for the offspring.

5. Ada is now considered an educational center, being the home of the best teachers college in the Southwest. To further this idea of an educational center, it appears to us every one who votes should cast a vote for the levy and good schools.

6. An appreciation of the efficiency and good judgment used in spending the money by the board of education and school officials should be shown by the voters. It is pointed out by those who know that the Ada board is one of the very few city boards which keep the expenditures within the income.

7. The parent-teacher associations, the members of which keep up with every detail of school affairs, have endorsed the levy and the administration of the schools in the highest terms.

8. A vote for the levy is a vote for better schools, a larger city, better citizenship. A vote against it is a vote for poor schools, a small town, and an ignorant citizenship.

NO RECORD KEPT OF APPOINTMENTS

Court Clerk Claims None of Commissioner Appointments Filed.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 7.—No copy of the proceedings of the state supreme court by which 15 commissioners of the court were selected recently was filed with W. M. Franklin, clerk of the court, and he is not advised of anything done at the meeting, including the confirmation of the commissioners, he said in a letter today to P. S. Nagle, socialist leader.

Franklin's letter was in reply to a request from Nagle for a copy of the record of the proceedings.

The letter said: "I was not present and no one in this office was present when the supreme court acted on the appointments made by the governor and I know nothing of their proceedings and I have no record of anything that was done at any meeting or any session of the court and no record of any appointment. All I know of what took place is hearsay. All the records this office has as to what the court did or the result of the action taken by the court are the oaths of office of the commissioners who were reported as being confirmed by the court and probably three or four certificates of appointment by the governor. We do not even have a report of the court showing just who were confirmed by the court."

"I do not know whose names were submitted to the court. It is reported that 36 names were submitted to the court and that finally 15 were confirmed, but I do not have their names and addresses."

Ada Golfers Plan Novel Banquet to Gain New Interest

Ada golfers are prepared to discuss the ancient and honorable sport from "soup to nuts" tomorrow at their luncheon at the Harris hotel at 11:15. The committee on arrangements has announced that slices of both good food and humor will feature at the meeting. W. C. Duncan will talk on, "My first par hole and when I expect to get it." W. L. Whitaker will discuss, "The perfect drive" and M. O. Matthews will tell of "The other fellow's putting." It is rumored that J. I. McCauley will sing an aria "The Lost Ball" from the famous tragic opera "In the Rough."

Quite a bit of enthusiasm has been manifest since the luncheon was first planned and a large attendance of the membership is anticipated.

MANDAMUS SEEKS TO STIR AUDITOR

Action Brought to Force Childers to Finance Legislative Probes.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 7.—Mandamus action to compel C. C. Childers, state auditor, to approve the salary and expense accounts of members of the legislative committee investigating the handling of failed state banks, appeared certain today when George Short, attorney general, announced that he would recommend that action by members of the committee.

Short said that Representative Guy Sigler of Ardmore, a member of the committee, will return today from Durant to Oklahoma City and that they will confer tomorrow. Short said he expects the committee to follow his advice and that the action will probably be brought at once. He said he explained to Sigler to press the action here while the other members of the committee continue the investigation at Durant.

"This will put the matter squarely before the courts," the attorney general said. "As my office has been said to be under investigation I do not wish to write an opinion that would keep the committee from functioning. I want it to investigate to its heart's content."

KLANSMEN DONATE FUND TO EVANGELIST HERE

Approximately 25 Ada Knights of Ku Klux Klan in full regalia, paid respects to the efforts of Evangelist Davis, now holding a revival at the Asbury Methodist church, corner Sixth and Johnson avenue, in the upbuilding of religious sentiment in Ada Sunday night when they presented him with a purse of $20 to be applied to any use he deemed fit.

The klansmen marched in a body to the altar where Robert Wimble, unmasked, presented the evangelist with the cash donation.

No word was spoken by the silent benefactors as they made their contribution.

They went in cars from their meeting hall to the church.

WANER ENDORSES EXTRA LEVY FOR SCHOOLS OF ADA

Secretary of Chamber of Commerce Claims Life of City Dependent.

ON PROSPERITY ROAD

New Industries and Trend to Prosperity Bespeak School Needs.

On behalf of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, Ralph Waner, secretary, endorses the extra school levy to be voted on Tuesday, calling attention to the fact that only by having good schools, can Ada expect to advance commercially and industrially. Mr. Waner's statement follows.

"Apparently, we are now entering an era of prosperity. Never in the past two years, have prospects for a prosperous future been so apparent. As we drive out into the rural districts we find conditions really gratifying. So far the season has been favorable and the farmers are in much better condition than they were a year ago.

"The fact that crop conditions are good is, indeed, encouraging but this is not all that we can depend upon in the future. New enterprises, new lines of business will be found in Ada by the time fall arrives. All this is practically assured and many other good things may come in the near future.

"The compress will be in operation again this fall and will give new business to the city. The new glass factory will bring new people and new business to Ada. We understand that the pay roll of this new factory is approximately thirty five thousand dollars per month which will be a big factor in reviving business conditions here. These things that we are assured of alone should make us all feel optimistic toward the future, and cause us to keep 'heads up' and work for more good things that will build our city."

Need School Influence
"While we feel happy to know that the future has good in store, we must not overlook the fact that we must keep up the things at home that are attracting these new enterprises. Tomorrow (May 8th.) we will go to the polls to vote yes or no for the School Tax Levy. All should know that this is vital to the school interests of Ada. The constitution provides that when it becomes necessary to levy more than five mills for maintenance of schools for any fiscal year the excess levy must be submitted to the qualified voters of the school district.

"A ten mill excess levy is needed to properly maintain our schools and unless this is voted our schools will receive only one-third of the amount required to run them during the next fiscal year. It is imperative that our schools function properly and the additional levy should be voted unanimously.

"The chief argument put up to get new enterprises is that we have good schools and good homes. Desirable people looking for a new location always ask about the schools, churches and homes. If we expect to keep our high standing in the good state of Oklahoma and make our city attractive to the good people that come to Oklahoma we must properly support our schools and churches. Do your duty as a citizen. Vote on this additional levy tomorrow as your conscience, as a loyal citizen, directs you."

Presbyterians Rush Church Building to Early Completion

The workers on the Presbyterian church put in full time last week with no interruption and made excellent progress with the brick work. Pastor Whitwell says that with another full week the brick and stone work will be completed and the building ready for the roof. This will be put on at once and after that other things will be looked after as rapidly as possible and the church made ready for occupancy within a few months at most.

At the Sunday night service the pastor paid a special tribute to the faithfulness of the crew that has stood by him on the building. These men have been very generous with their donations of part of their wages to the church building fund and some have turned down better jobs in order to complete the work on the church.

MORRIS PRAISES CIVIL WAR VETS

Local Pastor Commemorates Deeds of Valor of Southern Defenders.

A high tribute to the deeds of valor of the wearers of the grey, was paid Sunday morning in the Memorial Day Sermon of Reverend C. C. Morris, pastor of the first Baptist church Sunday morning to the Confederates of Pontotoc county.

Reverend Morris, himself, a descendant from the ranks of southern veterans, spoke in tender commemoration of the aims and principles cherished by the men of the South. In consoling terms, he viewed the long period of suffering undergone by the wearers of the grey.

Ada U. D. C. members also attended the service in a body, and before the service, Miss Anna Weaver Jones of the local U. D. C. paid a tribute to the old veterans with gifts of flowers to each Confederate in attendance.

The church was packed to capacity for the service and a large membership of the Confederate veterans were present.

Captain A. M. Crow, commander of the William Byrd camp at Ada, announced that preparations were under way for the receiving the Confederate veterans from this division, comprising the entire state, in the next convention, which will be held here September 19, 20, 21.

General Taylor, in charge of the division announced the states in order that information may be listed for special rate accommodation for delegates.

Captain Crow expected the largest attendance for the convention here than any held in the state.

Sulphur Boosters Slated for Visit With Ada Leaders

The Sulphur boosters, several loads of them, are expected to arrive in Ada about 1 o'clock tomorrow. It is planned to have them assemble at the Chamber of Commerce rooms and Secretary Waner urges that every business man and citizen who possibly can be to present and greet the visitors.

Secretary Waner states that no formal program has been arranged, but that some informal talks will be made and the visitors given the glad hand and an opportunity to tell about the plans of the famous health and pleasure resort for the summer.

Regents Meet Postponed

Oklahoma City, May 7.—Frank Buttram, a newly appointed member of the board of regents of the University, said today that the meeting of the board scheduled for today, would not be held. He said the board would probably meet sometime this week, and that since it is not organized the meeting must be called by Gov. Walton.

FORGED CHECKS AFFECT BUYERS

Wall Street in Flurry of Buying; Results from Check Defaults.

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 7.—Postoffice inspectors this afternoon went on trail of the band of check forgers that sent more than 100 worthless checks aggregating more than $1,000,000 to stock brokers in New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago for the purchase of stocks.

The New York stock exchange on announcing that the matter had been turned over to the government disclosed that at least 70 checks, averaging $15,000 each have been received by New York houses alone. Nearly 30 were sent to houses in Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago. The letters were mailed from widely separated points in Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts. One Chicago house deceived one from Kansas City.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Prices on the New York stock list were sent tumbling today by the reaction from the heavy buying Saturday on a flood of orders, which, it was disclosed, was backed by worthless checks drawn on several Pennsylvania banks.

More than a score of worthless checks were received by Wall street brokers. One of the checks for $15,000 was drawn on the Keystone National Bank of Reading was received to cover buying orders. Reports from Philadelphia and Boston said that brokers in those cities had received similar bogus orders. The checks in almost every case bore forged certifications which tricked some of the brokers into placing orders for large block of stock.

Selling began Saturday after the fraud was discovered and sent prices to new low levels.

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—At least two stock broker firms received forged checks for bogus stock market orders, it was learned today after prices began to fall on the New York exchange. The checks it was said, came from Altoona, Allentown and Harrisburg.

AMERICANS FALL VICTIM TO RAID IN CHINESE WAR

Activities of Chinese Bandits Threatens to Disrupt Peace of Countries.

TRAIN IS CAPTURED

One American Reported Killed and 150 Tourists Taken in Raid on Train.

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 7.—A situation, apparently regarded as seriously menacing the good relations between the United States and the Peking government in China was described today by American Minister Schurman in the first official report to reach the state department regarding the capture of American citizens by bandits near the Shantung border.

The American minister is understood to have already made official representations on his own responsibility and it is certain that he will be instructed by the government here to pursue a most vigorous course to secure the release of the prisoners unharmed.

The report was prepared by Mr. Schurman on the basis of information furnished him by an American citizen who was on the spot when the bandits attacked a tourist train on which many Americans were riding. It was indicated that so far as known none of those taken prisoners had been harmed. The minister apparently was hopeful that they would be released.

Minister Schurman's report was dated midnight, May 6, from Tsinanfu and described the situation as very serious.

PEKIN, May 7.—Reports coming in here slowly today from the Shantung border town of Lincheng where early yesterday 1,000 bandits seized the Shanghai-Pekin express train on the Tien-Tsin-Pukow railway and took captive 150 of its passengers, indicate that one foreigner, a British subject, named Rothman, was killed and that a number of Americans probably all men, still stood in peril in the clutches of the brigands this afternoon. Troops are believed to be pressing the bandits.

Among the Americans reported captured are Robert Scripps, newspaper publisher, Major Pinger and two other officers of the American army by the names of Roland and Allen, all of whom were in the Philippine service, and four others whose names were given as Henley, Lee, Solomon and Levy.

The passengers included 39 foreigners, 10 of whom escaped or were released.

Having derailed a forward portion of the train by means of a broken track, the bandits fired a volley towards the coaches.

Major Pinger's two sons were also taken prisoners, but Mrs. Pinger escaped. The captives included J. B. Powell, editor of the Weekly Review at Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, May 7.—One American was killed by the bandits who held up the Shanghai-Pekin express train near the Shantung border and carried off 150 passengers early yesterday, according to a message from Lincheng, which states that all of the women captives have been released. The men are still being held, and are said to be in grave danger.

The message said the bandits had notified the authorities that all the men among the foreign captives would be killed unless the troops were withdrawn.

The troops were pressing the bandits and firing on both sides was going on according to the latest advice.

The kidnapping plan is believed to have originated at Shanghai, when it became known that a large party was leaving to attend the ceremonies incident to the completion of Kung Ho Hopi dike in Tsin Nan.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Miss Luck Aldrich, sister of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was among the captives taken in the train raid in China, but was later released, according to a cable message received here today. She was circumventing the globe for the second time. Her brother Winthrop Aldrich, a member of the Rockefeller firm of attorneys said he was indeed glad to get news of her release and that Standard Oil representatives in China had failed to notify him of the occurrence, probably because its offices in China are closed on Sunday.

Miss Aldrich took with her as her traveling companions, Miss Minnie McFadden of Providence, Rhode Island and a maid. Both have been released.

McDonald hesitated. He did not think clearly; was incapable of sharp decision.

"You must love me," he heard Firth say. "You must. You must. . . I can't get along without you, Jane. . . Jane. . ." There was a brief silence. "Tell me you love me. Say you'll go away with me. . . Nobody, nothing has the right to keep us apart if we love. It's a sin to keep us apart."

"I—oh, let me think, let me think," said Jane.

"Think! You've had time for thinking. Weeks and months of it. You must know. You do know. . . Oh, Jane, nobody ever loved you as I do."

"It's sweet to be loved," said Jane.

"But—oh, a woman has so much to think of."

"Just think of you and me—of the happiness we have a right to have. . . Tell me, Jane, tell me you love me."

"Not now, John," McDonald heard his wife say. "Not tonight. Let me have just this night to think. Tomorrow I'll tell you—how it is to be."

"You'll tell me you love me? You'll tell me you will go away with me?"

Jane paused, unable to speak, unable to move. "I—I hope so," she said, softly.

McDonald turned slowly. Stealthily he walked away. He did not want to be seen or heard. He wanted to get away and to face this new disaster, to stare into its eyes and to demand its meaning. He tramped. Hour after hour he tramped, his head seething with incoherent thoughts. So he had lost everything, business, wife, home—all in one debacle! He tried to realize it, to peer ahead and to picture his future. He could not. He groped for some plan to follow, for some action to take—but there was no light to follow, only the murk of bewilderment. One thing he knew, one fact, stood out. He did not want to lose his wife and his home. Perhaps his wife might be a better wife and his home a happier home—but they were his and he wanted them. The thought of losing what lay yonder was intolerable to him.

There were savage thoughts, too; violent thoughts, but he fought them down. Somehow he did not blame Firth, and he could not blame his wife. Circumstances, cursed circumstances, were at fault. It was just the way things had happened. . . And then, as dawn broke over the eastern tree tops, fatalism came to his succor.

"I'm at my blackest hour," he said to himself. "I'm broke. . . If she's any good she'll stick by me. If she leaves me at a time like this she's better gone."

So, once again, he turned his footsteps toward his home. The house was still as he admitted himself and mounted the stairs to the room which was his wife's and his own. He opened the door. Jane heard the sound of it closing, and sat up, startled.

"Oh, McDonald," she said, and then she sat more erect and stared at him, at his gloomy, despairing eyes, at his weary, haggard face. "What time is it?" she asked.

"Nearly five."

"What—what is the matter, McDonald? Where have you been all night?"

"Walking," he said, "walking."

"Walking?" Alarm was in her voice.

MENTAL TESTS APPLIED TO LONDON CHILDREN

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON, May 7.—Strange tests that some critics say might puzzle much older children are being used at various London County Council schools to find out the mental development of juvenile pupils.

At eight the child is supposed to give an intelligent answer to such a question as:

"What are you going to do if you break something that belongs to somebody else?"

Satisfactory answers included:

"Pay for it." "Own up." Buy another." "Say I was sorry."

Unsatisfactory answers included such as: "I should cry." "Hit it." "Mend it." The last answer was considered useful as giving some indication as to the pupil's moral disposition.

The solving of circumstantial problems is one of the tasks allotted to indicate normal development of children of 13. One of the riddles was: "My next door neighbor has had three visitors, first, a doctor called, then a lawyer, and then a clergyman. What do you think has been happening there?"

One youngster thought that the lawyer was employed to get the man to marry the girl, while other replied not adjudged as satisfactory attributed the circumstances variously to "A murder." "A marriage" and "A baby was born."

The Sahara desert is a plateau from 1,300 to 1,600 feet above the sea.

"What has happened? What's the matter?"

He paused. Which calamity should he announce first? Something, not reason, told him there was but one calamity to announce. About his discovery of last night he would be silent. He could not bring himself to speak of it, and in that moment he knew that, whatever came, whatever should be the outcome, he could never tell her what he had overheard. It must be buried, buried in his heart, never to be exhumed.

"I'm broke!" he said baldly.

"Broke? What do you mean?"

"I mean," he said, patiently, "that the business has gone up the spout. I've lost everything. Even this house has gone. We'll have to get out of it. . . I haven't a cent in the world. It's—the end."

She stared at him wide-eyed, and, strangely enough, the thought that filled her mind was not of the money lost, of comforts departed, of possible poverty to come—it was of McDonald's loss—that the thing he had labored so hard to build was destroyed. Her heart cried out with sympathy for him!

"You poor boy. . . Everything you've worked so hard for?"

"Everything," he said dully. "I'm—done."

She got out of bed and walked to his side. "It's wicked, cruel," she said.

He shrugged his shoulders. "You've been wanting to get away from me," he said in a low voice. "There's no reason why you shouldn't now. . . no reason why you shouldn't do it now. . . You'll be as well off away from me as with me."

"I tell you everything's gone. This house—everything! You can't keep a servant. God knows where I'll get money for food!" He turned away.

"There's no use prolonging this. Somehow I'll fix things up for you to stay here until you're ready to go."

She clutched his arm. "McDonald, what do you mean? Do you want to get rid of me?"

He looked down into her eyes. "No," he said.

"And you think I'd—desert you—when you're down and out? You think I'm that kind of a quitter?"

"You've wanted to get away. You've been so tired of me."

"Poor boy. . . I—Oh, McDonald, can't you see I couldn't go now? If you were rich—if everything was all right with you—"

"But now, when—when you need me. Sit down here."

She drew him upon the bed beside her. "I may be a quitter," she said, "but I'm no quitter."

"We'll start again. Maybe it's all—been planned this way. Maybe it didn't—just happen. We'll start fresh. I'm not afraid. You—you can find a job—or get a start somehow, and I'll work. Oh, Mac, Mac, don't you want me to help you—back?"

"You don't love me," he said.

She looked into his eyes a full minute before replying, and then she said, "No, McDonald. . . not the way you mean, dear. It's better than the other kind of love—more lasting, more to depend on. Don't make me go—don't make me go. Let me stay and start all over again, not from the beginning, but from a new beginning."

She stood before him and held out her hand. It is significant she did not offer her lips, but something told both of them that would be playing off the key. She extended her hand, and he took it in his hand and clung to it. Suddenly she burst into tears.

"Thank God you—you—busted," she said tremulously.

RECOVERED MORE THAN DIME

Andrew Carnegie Stopped for Small Coin, and Had One More Proof of His Being Lucky.

Sometimes even the trivial side of a great man appeals to the public, writes Roscoe G. Mitchell in The Nation's Business. There is one experience I had with Mr. Carnegie. I had a copy of a cable from Berlin relative to some move made by the then Emperor William looking to the promotion of world peace. My city editor had asked that I get Mr. Carnegie to comment on the cable dispatch. I located Mr. Carnegie at a meeting of the Civic Federation at Hotel Astor. When the meeting had concluded and the guests were taking their departure, I rushed over to the speaker's table to have a word with him. Just as I spoke to Mr. Carnegie, I was surprised to see him dart suddenly on all fours under the table without acknowledging my greeting. I pursued my quarry to his place of refuge. As I crawled under the table, I saw the ironmaster on hands and knees and a worried look on his bearded countenance.

Before I could delve further into the mystery, Mr. Carnegie's face was hanging. Getting back on his feet, he displayed a quarter and a dime. Happy as a ten-year-old on a Christmas morning, he explained:

"I had taken this ten cents from my pocket to give to the hat check girl at the door. When you spoke to me I dropped the coin. Now I have recovered my original coin and an additional twenty-five cents. I tell you, my boy, it's better to be born lucky than rich."

Unfair Discrimination.

Elizabeth was spending Christmas at Uncle Fred's. The kitchen was a busy place, and she was told to stay out of it, which was rather a hardship.

Her cousins, the twins, sometimes made trips out there and she said dolefully to her mother: "The twins keep going to the kitchen and they are just boys and here I'm a nice little girl and I can't go."

Tiger Outfielder May Figure in First Big Deal of Season

Henry Manush, left, whose playing has led Cobb to put Ira Flagstead right, on the market, according to rumors.

There are several conditions that make this move on Cobb's part sound reasonable.

Reason No. 1 is Mr. Harvey Manush, late of the Western league. This outfielding bozo is hitting so hard and fielding so well when he gets a chance that he seems ready now to step into the shoes of the veterans Bobby Veach or Harry Hellman when needed.

Reason No. 2 is Robert Fothergill, late of the International league, whose official title is "Ty Cobb's understudy," and who is recognized over the league as being one of the sweetest young slugging outfielders answering the big league alarm clocks in the morning.

Reason No. 3 is the fact that Flagstead and Cobb never have been bosom chums, although this animosity hasn't worked to the detriment of the club.

Cobb has a surplus of slugging outfielders. He still could use a third baseman. Also a good pitcher. The general belief is, though, that he would like an infielder. He started the season with the veteran Cutshaw playing second and Bobby Jones at third. Cutshaw is slipping rapidly his steady influence in the infield being the main reason for his presence there. Jones is a good third baseman, but not one of the best. Its a toss up between Haney and Jones now and neither is a whiz.

The Indians and the Red Sox are mentioned as possible parties to a deal for Flagstead. Maybe something will turn up.

HAD BACKING AT VICKSBURG

Old Soldier's Humorous Explanation for Not Braving Displeasure of His Better Half.

"When our concern was publishing histories of Missouri counties, some years ago, one of our solicitors brought in a hard luck story that seemed amusing to me, but meant the loss of $5 to him," said William H. Bingham, field man for a large Chicago publishing house. "The subject was an old farmer living near Bear creek, in one of the northern counties. Our man sat out on the porch and jotted down the history, which the farmer gave with eagerness. The farmer had been in the Union army, and showed an honorable discharge.

"Finally everything had been noted down by the solicitor, who briefly summarized the facts, and said they would be carefully written out in the office and printed in our forthcoming history of the county.

"The solicitor handed the farmer a blank to sign, but just as he reached for the pencil:

"Don't sign that!"

"A large, aggressive woman appeared at the door, her ample hands resting on her hips.

"This is only an order for one of our county histories, with your husband's biography in it, explained the solicitor. 'He doesn't have to pay a cent till he gets the book.'

"And what is the book going to cost?" she demanded.

"Fifteen dollars."

"Fifteen dollars for just one book?" the wife cried. "Why, I can get a whole shelf full of books for that. Don't you sign that, Zeb, and she walked back to her task in the kitchen."

"Here," said the solicitor, again tendering the pencil; "sign here."

"But the veteran shook his head.

"Guess I won't go in," he said with finality.

"What? You scared of a woman?"

A man who stormed the Vicksburg entrenchments and entered the captured citadel.

"Yes, yes, I did all that," admitted the old soldier. "but you see, I had some friends with me then."—Kansas City Star.

Then She Got the Cookies.

Alice came dashing in from her play. "Oh, mamma! mamma!" she called. "What is it, dearie?" mamma answered, from the kitchen.

"Mamma, I want some cookies," Alice begged.

"But I just gave you some a moment ago," mamma protested.

"I know," Alice admitted, "but I ate those, and now I need some more."

"But I don't think you need any more," mamma declared. "It isn't good for you to eat so many cookies. Why, when I was a little girl your size I wasn't always eating cookies and things between meals!"

Alice thought this over for a moment. Then:

"Well, maybe you didn't," she admitted, "but then you surely didn't have as good a mamma as I have!"—Kansas City Star.

OKLAHOMA FIRST HONOR AGED MEN

Walton Issues Proclamation Pointing Out Necessity of Respecting Age.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 7.—Oklahoma is the first state in the union to set aside the last Saturday of every month of the year for paying of tributes of respect to old people. It is said at the office of Gov. J. O. Walton.

The governor has issued a proclamation naming the day "Veneration Day." In his manifesto Governor Walton said that the youth of today is prone to disregard the rights of its elders in its own pursuit of pleasure, and that he believes it only necessary to point out this growing lack of regard to bring about a change.

"It has been brought to my attention that, in the lighthearted pursuance of pleasure on the part of the youth of our state, there has come to be an increasing amount of indifference if not disregard, for the comfort and well being of their elders who have mainly fought the battles of life already and labored to a worthy end, that those who come after them may enjoy great comfort than they themselves had known," the governor said in his proclamation.

"Acting as chief executive of the state of Oklahoma," he continued, "in the conviction that our youth need only be reminded of such tendencies as arise out of its natural frivolities and thoughtlessness, I hold that it is well to arrest the attention of those who are heedless of the respect due to their elders and issue this as a reminder and admonition of a kind they may not disregard."

"I have decided to establish and set aside the last Saturday of each month of the year as a day to be known as 'Veneration Day' in Oklahoma, at which time every class and condition of our population are sought to perform some act that will bring joy and satisfaction to those who are our elders, paying some such tribute of respect as may best befit the occasion to those to whom such respect and veneration are due."

Blind Man's Buff

Even in this age of enlightenment some folks spend their money blindly. They buy with their eyes shut. They grope in the dark as truly as if their eyes were bandaged.

And all the time a powerful light is being thrown on the very things they need and want!

Advertising is a beacon to guide you in buying. It shows you what to buy—where to buy—and when to buy. At the same time, it protects you against fraud and inferiority.

Merchants and manufacturers who advertise deliberately focus thousands of eyes upon their wares. Their values must be honest and their prices right, or they could not advertise successfully.

Don't play blind man's buff with the elusive dollar. Spend a few minutes each day running through the advertisements in this paper. Then buy the products that have proved up in the light of advertising.

Ada Amateurs on Rampage And Wilson Furnished Food For Victory Here Sunday

In a Sunday afternoon slugfest, accompanied with erratic playing of both teams, Ada gained the best of the bargain by superior team work and base running and trounced the visiting Wilson baseball club by a victory of 8 to 1.

Nine errors on the part of the Wilson team accounted for the heavy end of the score for Ada, Wilson batters having outlived the Ada club from the outset of the game.

ADA MOTOR CLUB IN ACTION HERE

New Officers to be Elected to Carry on Important Service to Public.

With the election of officers for the Ada Motor club at a meeting to be held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, plans will be under way for the better serving of the traveling public.

Many new plans are slated to be placed on record for the interest of tourists, who make Ada an important stopping place, it is announced.

Present officers say tourists are now beginning to pass through Ada, and they must be taken care of.

The motor club is planning this year to get a permanent keeper at the camp ground; to erect sign boards on all the highways advertising Ada and to keep a registration of all tourists coming to Ada.

They will also lend every effort in obtaining the bridge over the Canadian, as well as giving first hand information on all highways in the entire state, as well as the United States.

It is hoped that every member will be present at this meeting to help elect the very best set of officers possible to carry on the work of the club this year.

The present officers of the club are very anxious to get maps showing the highways that lead in and out of Ada to be distributed free by the different garages and filling stations. The club will also be instrumental in getting better markings on the Ozark Trail in Pontotoc county.

Secretary Abney states he has many inquiries regarding the camp ground and the condition of the highways in this section from people in other places.

According to information received by the News, it is not necessary to be registered in order to vote tomorrow on the question of a tax levy for maintenance of the public schools.

Thus far very little discussion of the question has been heard on either side, every voter apparently being content to vote according to his own views without joining issues with some one else.

Only Ada Hi Entry to Break Into Winning Class at State Meet.

Competing with hundreds of athletes from all corners of the state, Frank Potts, Ada Hi star, was the only pointer to gain distinction on the athletic field in the annual state interscholastic meet at Norman last Saturday.

Ada Hi entered five athletes in the meet, but Potts was the only man on the Ada team to come out of the long grind for athletic honors with a place in any of the events.

Turner King, running mate with Potts in the district meet here was disqualified in the hurdles when he tripped over one too many in his race. King was leading the field in his race when he hit the next to last hurdle, twisting his ankle. He finished second in the race after the handicap but was disqualified on rules.

Potts proved the strong man of the Ada competition. Potts claimed place in the pole vault and third place in the broad jump.

Potts' competition in the pole vault with Price of Norman, who bested his efforts by one inch, was one of the features of the meet, a new record being set at the height of 11.7 feet. Potts cleared the bar at 11.6 but failed in his three chances at the one inch raise

REVISE PRESENT FIRE PROTECTION STANDARDS

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO May 7.—Important revisions of present standards of fire protection to keep steps with changes in industrial progress will be submitted to the delegates to the twenty-seventh annual convention of the National Fire Protection Association who will assemble here tomorrow for a three day conference.

Regulations adopted in former years by the association, which heretofore have been of interest only to underwriters and valuable to them in estimating hazards, are now becoming popular and in common use as a guide by municipal and state bodies having jurisdiction over fire protection and prevention according to a statement issued by officials of the national association here.

The large increase in fire losses during the last three years is making the work of the association a matter of increasing public interest and the largest delegation ever to attend a national meeting is expected as a result, the announcement says.

Women's hospitals were founded in Soho, England, in 1842.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

REST IN PEACE.—Thou shalt lie down, and none shall make thee afraid.—Job 11:19.

EVENING UP.

Spring has been late this year because the sun has been having a chill. The heat cast off by that great furnace up in the sky is not up to standard. While it's only four per cent less than it should be, that's enough to play havoc with our weather.

So announces Prof. C. G. Abbot of the National Academy of Sciences. "Sensational and extraordinary!" scientists comment.

The sudden and unexplained cooling of the sun began about 15 months ago. Don't worry. A congressional committee probably will investigate it. The sun's chill follows a period of several years in which its heat was above normal. Apparently nature is merely eveningf things—restoring to normal balance.—News-Capital.

The loveliness of life in the communist colony founded by Bill Haywood in Russia was revealed by Thomas B. Doyle of Baton Rouge, La., who with his family, recently returned to America. Mr. Doyle told about it in a talk which he gave at a meeting in New York. Before he went to Russia he had a home, some savings and a good job in Baton Rouge. He listened to Red propaganda, sold his home and took his family to Russia, where he turned over all he had to the "industrial commonwealth," which was expected to be a sort of earthly paradise. To make a long story short, for he found nothing but disappointment, he lost everything he had, was disgusted and came back thoroughly disillusioned, and he is now denouncing all radicals. The schemes of the radicals "listen" sweet, but their fruits are bitter, Mr. Doyle knows because he has learned in the hard school of experience.—Chickasha Express.

A writer who has visited Russia says that it is possible to secure a divorce there within 30 minutes after a marriage ceremony. That is slightly better than the record at Reno. Perhaps it can be lowered a few minutes, however.

The Wall Street game is a hard one for outsiders to beat. Not long ago it was reported that Clarence Saunders of Memphis, president of the Piggly Wiggly chain of stores, had taken Wall Street to a cleaning, but now it develops that he only succeeded in getting himself into a hole from which his friends are straining every nerve to rescue him. He made several millions on paper, but the paper appeared to be of the German mark or Russian ruble character, consisting of big figures and not much else.

And now it looks like we shall get no tax refund after all. A technicality has been discovered which it is said will prevent the payments being made. The courts held the tax of 1921 for state purposes was illegal and those who paid under protest got their money back, but only the big fellows thought to do that. Therefore the $2,000,000 appropriated by the legislature to take care of the others will probably remain in the treasury.

The murder of an entire family near Haworth has been solved by the confession of the perpetrators. Capital punishment would not restore the lives of the victims, but it would be a protection to others. It is no safe for such creatures to live and be in a position to murder others. If these demons have the money to bring the proper influences to bear the chances are that in a few years they will be out of the penitentiary and ready for some other crime.

The decision of the supreme court that the United States may prescribe regulations on the bringing in of booze by foreign vessels is causing some kick from European quarters where wines and other liquors are produced in large quantities. However, American laws are not made with the view of pleasing outside nations.

The rum fleet has returned to the coast of New Jersey and New York and the thirsty ones perhaps manage to get a few cases through the lines of the patrol boats which the government has on guard ready to grab smugglers when they try to cross the three-mile line.

The French have just assessed a fine of 50,000,000 marks against a German industrial magnate. However, under present quotations that is only about $1,000 of American money and furthermore, the government printing presses can run off that sum within a few hours. He should worry.

It is reported that Jack Dempsey will receive $300,000 cash on the barrel head as an installment on his next fight. Figures of that size are enough to cause the public to wonder if German marks and not dollars is not what is meant.

Perhaps the man who complains most bitterly of the coldness of the world never put forth much effort himself to warm it up any.

Time to Put on Front.
(Shawnee News)

All over the city yards are being put in shape, lawns carefully mowed, dead limbs removed from the trees, flower gardens spaded and things generally put in apple pie order, for spring is here and the time to look our best has come. Shawnee is and has been noted for many years as a mighty pretty residence town.

But it is impossible to say much for the business district. The old buildings which have some unpainted and unimproved for years have more than offset the new ones of a modern character which have been erected from time to time the past few years.

A city is largely judged by the front it puts up. Its business district is a pretty good criterion as a rule, but not so Shawnee. It is time now to be frank about the matter and not try to ignore the fact that a general remodeling of store fronts, painting and dressing up is needed without delay for Shawnee is to have thousands of visitors the next few months who have never been here before and many of whom will not take a look at the handsome residence districts before forming their conclusions.

No landlords have had empty buildings and stores on their hands for long periods in Shawnee like they have in some cities of Oklahoma. There has been a steady demand for quarters and rents have been regular. This year will see a greater demand for buildings and landlords will not hesitate one minute to raise rents to meet the demands. This being the case the owner of business property not only owes it to himself but to his city to lighten up his property and make it attractive. In this way everyone will be helped and in the meantime increased employment will tend to improve business.

Let's clean up and paint up and dress up the downtown district now and start off the civic development which is well within sight.

Beware of the Sharper.
(Chickasha Star)

The government at Washington has found it necessary to send out a warning to all the people to beware of the many operators who are engaged in taking money and giving nothing but worthless paper and junk for it. The vigorous campaign that has been made against these sharper by the government with its sale of treasury savings certificates has served to curb them to some extent, but they are irrepresible, and this spring they are operating with new tricks, but have the same old fakes for sale. Wherever there is money these swindlers are to be found. Once in a while some one of them does something which enables the government to lay hands upon him, but for the most part they are sleek enough to avoid being caught. Most of the people who are swindled are so ashamed of being "suckers" that they will give no information concerning the men who take their money from them. The only effective way to save is to select a good security. The government tells all about it in its booklet which is advertised in this paper.

STATE READY TO HELP HARVESTERS

Oklahoma Labor Bureau to Handle Labor Supply for Wheat Growers.

(By the Associated Press)

Oklahoma City, May 5.—When the mid-western wheat harvest begins in a little more than a month in Oklahoma and Texas, the Oklahoma department of labor will be prepared to supervise the distribution of harvest hands to points where they are most needed with greater facility than ever before, according to W. A. Murphy, assistant state commissioner of labor.

Organization of the harvest, labor machinery is further advanced than usual at this time, he declared today. He is working with the Oklahoma Wheat Growers' association, he said, and with mayors and chambers of commerce and local farmers' organizations at towns throughout the wheat section of the state.

At the same time, Murphy said, state labor officials comprising the Farm Labor Exchange, from practically all middle western states, are to meet this week at Kansas City to effect a cooperative program to move labor northward as the season advances. Claude E. Connolly, labor commissioner, called the meeting as president of the exchange. Members of the exchange are from Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Missouri, Texas, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Minnesota and Arkansas.

The wheat harvest will begin in this state about June 10 to 15, according to Murphy, depending upon local weather conditions. Starting first in a comparatively small region of northwestern Oklahoma, it will spread northward until it ends for the United States at the Canadian border about two months later.

The greatest problem in connection with the harvest is the proper distribution of harvest labor, most of which is transient, and all of which is seeking the district where highest wages are paid, according to Murphy. He said that the hardest districts to supply with labor are those which are not on main lines of railroads, where the workers may doubt their chances to obtain transportation from one district to another.

Such a district is that including Harper, Beaver and Ellis counties of this state, Murphy said. Only one rail line runs into those counties, and comes to a head near the center of Beaver county. Workers going into these districts feel that they must have additional inducements to entice them into such remote surroundings, Murphy pointed out.

One of the "bones" of the harvest fields in other years, according to Murphy, will be absent this year, according to present indications. This is the army of members of the International Workers of the World. "We have heard nothing about the I. W. W. this year," Murphy said, "and we are not expecting them to cause us any trouble."

The I. W. W. caused only one flurry in the state last year, according to Murphy, when they appeared in some force at Enid, in Garfield county, but the were soon scattered and caused little damage.

A good demand for labor by the country over this year is not expected to have much effect on the supply of harvest hands, and wages are expected by the department to open at about the same figure as last year, from $3.50 to $4.00 a day. But the department is just now sending out questionnaires to all wheat counties, asking for statements of wages to be offered. Queries are being received from all parts of the United States regarding wages and answers are being withheld until the questionnaires are returned, Murphy said.

DR. BUTLER TO DELIVER LECTURES IN ENGLAND

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 7.—Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, will go to England this spring to deliver a series of lectures on the building of the American nation. He leaves New York May 12 and probably will return the latter part of June.

Dr. Butler will deliver his addresses on the Sir George Watson Foundation for American history, literature and institutions. In 1919 Sir George Watson, a successful English manufacturer, established a fund to be applied to developing instruction in British colleges in American history, a branch of education which he had found to be neglected. The Duke of Connaught is chairman of the trustees of the fund.

Dr. Butler will speak in London at the Mansion House; at the Universities of Cambridge, Liverpool, Manchester and Leeds in England; of Glasgow, St. Andrews and Edinburgh in Scotland, and of Cardiff in Wales.

LONG GONE DAYS OF CHIVALRY REVIVED; AMERICAN GIRL ENJOYS ROYAL HONORS

The crash of rending timbers; the shrieks of doomed men and women; the panic of onlookers; the hiss of exploding steam—all these, while they cannot be heard, are very vividly portrayed when they bring "If I Were Queen" to a stirring climax on the screen of the American Theatre where Ethel Clayton's first big independent production will be shown Monday.

For perhaps the first time in her brilliant career, Ethel Clayton figures in a production of unusual proportions in scenic effects. "If I Were Queen" is a big picture in the truest sense of the word. The railroad wreck is a piece of extraordinary direction and photography. It is developed with exceptional realism. Moreover, it is evident from the havoc wrought on the screen that this scene cost much in money and labor. But the results are there—big and imposing.

The plot deals with the adventures of a charming young American girl who becomes unwittingly involved in the quaint politics of three small kingdoms of the Balkans. It would not do to disclose too much of it. Suffice it to state there is ample romance, comedy and some good strong drama that will have widespread appeal. The cast, in addition to Miss Clayton, is excellent. Among the players are Warner Bateman, Murdock MacQuarrie and Genevieve Blinn. Wesley Ruggles was the director.

Marshal Ney of France was an excellent flute player.

DUCHY OF LUXEMBURG TO HAVE ARMY OF 500

(By the Associated Press)

BRUSSELS, May 7.—The "Journal d'Esch" announces that the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg is about to reorganize its army. It is no longer to be regarded as a joke and treated as a pretext for arraying a baker's dozen of good looking men in picturesque uniforms so that they make a bit of a show when the army is mustered for ceremonial occasions.

But it will cause no trembling among foreign potentates. The whole army will consist of only about 500 men, but they will be real soldiers and equipped as such. When the baby Grand Duchess was born recently, the necessary salute to herald the new arrival was fired with guns that had to be borrowed from France. The new army will at least save the Duchy from a repetition of the humiliation. Every soldier will be given a gun and will be taught how to handle it.

By the new organization, the soldiers will serve four years, and a reserve of 1,400 will be formed.

Christensen Predicts Landslide of Farmer Votes in 1924 Races

(By the Associated Press)

SYDNEY, N. S. W., May 6.—The Farmer-Labor party, which came into being during the American presidential campaign of 1920, is expected to take an active part in the 1924 elections, according to Parley P. Christensen, the party presidential nominee in 1920, who is here on a world tour.

He said that elections in the United States since 1920 "showed how the wind is blowing and, when 1924 comes along, you watch our smoke.

Judge Christensen left the United States in May, 1921, and since then has travelled extensively in England, France, Germany, Ireland, Italy, Russia, Finland, Egypt, the Balkans, Japan, China, Siberia and the Philippines. He intends to tour Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand, South America, Central America, and Mexico before returning to the United States.

He said that his visit to Russia had left him convinced that that country should be allowed to take her place in the world again.

Light breakfasts are almost as popular as heavy morning meals among many notables who recently answered a questionnaire on the subject.

Newer Form of Iron is Red Blood Food

If your blood is thin, pale and watery, keeping you weak, nervous and run-down, you need rich, red blood with plenty of iron in it to give you strength, energy and endurance. It would surely astonish you to see how in two short weeks a little more iron in your blood would help renew the elasticity, the strength and energy of your body. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the good out of your food. Without iron, nothing you eat does you any good. Your food simply passes through you and your body is literally starving on three big meals a day.

This newer form of iron known as Nuxated Iron is in fresh vegetables and like the iron in your blood in concentrated form. It may be had from all druggists with a guarantee of entirely satisfactory results or your money back.

"Well, Tanlac together with the Tanlac Vegetable Pills have ended my stomach complaints, and built me up thirteen pounds as well. In fact, it has built up my whole system and greatly increased my strength. It is just grand to be in such good health again and I can't praise Tanlac enough.

American Fall Victim in Chinese War

Miss Aldrich is a daughter of the late Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island noted in tariff making, and is wealthy in her own right.

TEN ESIN, May 7.—A train arriving here this afternoon with many foreigners who escaped when the Shanghai-Peking express was held up yesterday by a large force of bandits at Lincheng. In the party were Mrs. Robert Allen and Mrs. Finger and the latter's younger son.

The women said their husbands, who are majors in the American army and Mrs. Finger's older sons were kidnapped. The Americans told of brutality by the robbers. The bandits, they said, started firing on the train before it was derailed. Some went about smashing the windows with hatchets when it was brought to a stop. They then entered the cars and robbed the passengers of their valuables, searching some coaches as many as three times to be sure that they missed nothing. One foreigner was killed, but his identity was not known.

It was nearly two hours after the train had been stopped when a warning whistle was blown and the bandits left with their captives. A few of the foreigners escaped and hid in the long grass, but more than 20 were carried off, including six women. Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Finger were left behind when it was found that they were unable to keep up with the fast pace set by the bandits.

Estimate 115 Captured
It is estimated that about 115 passengers were kidnapped, most of them in night attire and without their baggage. They were forced to walk bare foot over the broken glass in the vicinity of the train and were hustled by brutal guards over the rough country as the bandits fled in fear of pursuit.

Soldiers arriving on the scene soon after the departure of the raiding party and the government ordered the military governors of the adjoining provinces to immediately take up the pursuit.

A complete list of the kidnapped foreigners is not available here, but an American engineer named Henley, an Italian lawyer by the name of Musso and a number of English women are believed to be among them.

HANNIBAL, May 7.—Confirmation of the capture of John B. Powell, a former Missourian, by Chinese bandits was received today by J. P. Hinton, Powell's father in law, in a cable from Mrs. Powell who is in Shanghai. Powell was formerly an instructor in the university of Missouri.

The fire which destroyed the historic city of Astoria in December, 1922, was the largest in the history of the Northwest.

BUSINESS MEN SEE BETTY COMPTON AT WORK

Star Has Large Audience During Filming of "The Rustle of Silk."

Betty Compton, popular Paramount star, recently had the unique experience of playing for both an audience and the camera at one and the same time.

In the filming of "The Rustle of Silk," in which Miss Compton and Conway Tearle are featured, and which will be the feature at the McSwain Theatre today, there was an important sequence of scenes which it was necessary to photograph at night.

Just about the time Director Herbert Brenon reached this point in the story the Associated General Contractors of America met in convention in Los Angeles. Through the efforts of the architects of the city arrangements were made for all of the delegates and their families to go through Paramount's West Coast studio.

But this party numbered nearly five hundred, and they could only be taken through the huge plant after working hours. However, in order that they might get a comprehensive view of how pictures are made, Betty Compton and Director Brenon volunteered to work on the evening of their visit.

Consequently the star spent an entire evening acting before an audience which would have filled a small theatre, while the cameras recorded her work for a much larger audience. And at the end of each "act" or scene the audience on the set acted just as an enthusiastic crowd of theatre-goers act—they applauded vigorously.

And between scenes the star and director were photographed with J. W. Cooper, the new president of the organization; Edward J. Harding, membership manager; Arthur S. Bent, the retiring president, and General R. C. Marshall, general manager.

Wall Street to South Ferry

By H. IRVING KING

(© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Charley Fosdick was a clerk down in the financial district and his boarding house was well over on the West side in the Twenties. He was a frugal chap with a savings bank account and a determination to get ahead. Charley was from Oakdale, Mass., a small town, but he was not a bit afraid of New York, which was a strong point in favor of his succeeding. Don't think that he was "fresh" or unheeding of the fierce competition he was up against.

The firm of Catherwood & Robbins, by which Charley was employed, was run by old man Jameson, a white side-whiskered autocrat. Robbins had died years and years ago; Catherwood had died about two years before Charley came to the firm, and the business was continued by his heirs, two sons and a daughter, whom no one seemed to know much about and who were never seen at the office. Now, every day at a certain hour, punctually to the minute by Trinity church clock, for he was a methodical person, Charley left the office, walked up Wall street, turned down Broadway and proceeded to South Ferry, where he took the Ninth avenue "L."

He enjoyed this healthful little walk after the confinement of the office, and besides, by taking the train at South Ferry he stood a better chance of getting a seat. And every day as he passed a large office building on Broadway there emerged therefrom a young woman of about his own age, soberly clad, and to Charley's eyes exceedingly beautiful. There was an air of efficiency about her, too, which to a person constituted as Charley Fosdick was added greatly to her attractiveness.

The fair and efficient unknown was always accompanied by an older woman less plainly dressed, but the young New Yorker from Oakdale, who was a close observer and a good judge of values, was willing to bet that the fine clothes of the older woman cost less than the plainer ones of the younger. The couple followed the same route as Charley—Broadway, Bowling Green, Whitehall street. He watched to see what then became of them and found that they entered the Staten Island ferry house. This conjunction of time, place, route and persons had been going on for some time before either of the persons concerned noticed it, but as soon as they did it became the usual and expected. Charley always watched the entrance of the office building as he approached to see if the plainly dressed young lady was emerging and the plainly dressed young lady always gave a swift glance up the street to see if the young man was on time.

They neither bowed nor spoke, of course. But they became quite like old friends after a while. At last the barrier fell; it fell with a little hand-bag which the young lady carelessly let fall and which Fosdick picked up and restored to her with his best bow and a few well-chosen words to be rewarded with a bow and a smile. After that the young lady bowed when they met; then it became a "how do you do" and, after a long while, the youth negotiating his approaches slowly but skillfully, he was permitted to join the young lady and her companion in the daily descent to the ferry.

The ice having been broken, both the young people plunged in head over heels. Charley used to think it quite a little walk, but now, no sooner had he turned into Broadway from Wall street than he found himself at the ferry.

The young lady called herself Miss Susan Knox and introduced her companion as Miss Stetson. She talked freely enough—but when Charley came to think it over, the fact that she was employed in the office of the Smithson estate was about all the information regarding her that he had acquired. Whereas he realized that by skillful questions and leading remarks, she had extracted from him the most minute details of his private affairs as well as all the information he could afford with regard to the business of his firm. Regarding the latter she seemed strangely curious—and Charley was as wax in her hands. He asked permission to call; but had to be content with "Well, not just now—later, perhaps."

They were getting perilously near the "Susan" and "Charley" stage when something happened. "What's been the matter with you all the week?" said Miss Knox suddenly one day as they were passing the Standard Oil building. "Things going wrong at the office?"

Charley glanced at Miss Stetson. Susan said something to that guardian dragon under her breath and she dropped behind. "The fact is," said Charley, "I think I'll throw up my job." And then he told her that from things which had come under his cognizance in the course of his office duties he believed that Old Man Jameson had been using the firm's money to speculate with and was about due for a smashup that might wreck or cripple the concern. He had bought heavily of T. P. & Q., which had gone down five points and gave signs of going still lower.

"And you think," said Miss Knox at the end of the recital, "that if T. P. & Q. went up so that Jameson could break even with the market he would draw out and replace the money he has ever-borrowed?"

"Yes, for this deal," replied Charley, "but Lord knows how soon he would be in on another."

"Well, you'd better keep your job a while," said she. "Here we are at the ferry. Good day."

The next day T. P. & Q. began to go up. It rose steadily all the next week until it was two points above where Jameson had bought it. On the day the stock reached that point Charles Fosdick had the shock of his life.

Miss Knox and Miss Stetson appeared at the office of Catherwood & Robbins and were shown in to Old Man Jameson's private sanctum, and Mr. Catlin, chief of the office staff, a veteran employee whom Jameson had always kept down, was sent for. When the two women finally left the office they were shortly followed by Jameson, who looked neither to right nor left as he went out. Then came out of the private office Mr. Catlin, who posted up a notice to the effect that Mr. Jameson having resigned, Mr. J. Catlin was appointed manager in his place.

Miss Susan "Knox" was Miss Susan Catherwood. Her two brothers, choosing to live most of the time in Europe, had given her power of attorney for the affairs of Catherwood & Robbins, to be used only in case of need, they having every confidence in Jameson. The Smithson Estate consisted of dwelling houses and other buildings left to Susan by her mother. Susan, being of a business turn, managed this herself, keeping for the purpose a little office in the building from which Charley had seen her emerge. Miss Stetson was her secretary.

Charley went down Broadway the day of Susan's visit to the Catherwood & Robbins office with his head in a whirl. No Miss "Knox" met him; but Miss Stetson did, and acidly commanded him to accompany her to Staten Island. There, in a fine old house overlooking the Narrows, Susan explained matters to him.

"As for Jameson," she said, "his judgment of values was sound, but T. P. & Q. was raided by the bears. However, I got two of my brokers at work and we squeezed the shorts. This allowed Jameson to pull out and make good. But as I didn't propose to have him using the firm's money for speculative purposes I let him go. I propose to keep a closer supervision of the firm's affairs after this, so I shall not be able to handle the Smithson estate. How would you like to take my place?"

No, they were not married at once—it was not until Charley had managed the Smithson estate for a year. And it was two years before the name of the Wall street firm was changed to Catherwood & Fosdick.

ANIMALS IMMUNE TO POISON

Only Arsenic Seems Able to Kill All Insect, Vegetable, and Animal Forms of Life.

Some animals can absorb enough poison to kill a regiment of men without suffering any ill effects at all. Morphia, for instance. Of this deadly drug a goat can swallow with impunity enough to kill one thousand human beings. London Answers says.

Cats again seem morphia proof. They can take quantities of the poison without being made in the least sleepy. On the contrary, morphia seems to excite the animals.

A pigeon has been known to eat 80 grains of morphia mixed with its food in a fortnight. Here again the bird was not in any way harmed.

Rabbits will eat belladonna, eat it to such an extent that their flesh becomes poisonous, while they themselves are not any the worse.

Cantharidin is not so deadly as the poisons already mentioned, yet one grain has been known to kill a human being. You might, however, give a whole spoonful to a hedgehog without doing the slightest harm to the prickly chap.

Arsenic is one of the few poisons which kills all forms of life—insect, animal and vegetable—and of the vegetable poisons there is one—namely, nicotine—which is even more deadly in its effects on the lower animals than it is upon mankind.

Novel Snuff Boxes.

The extraordinary manner in which the natives of Iceland take snuff was described recently by A. E. Coleby, the well-known Stoll producer, who has just returned from that chilly spot, where he has been producing the exterior scenes in the screen version of Sir Hall Caine's "The Prodigal Son."

"Snuff taking in Iceland," said Mr. Coleby, according to the London Tit-Bits, "is not a habit. It is an art. Snuff boxes are made out of sheep's horns, the ends of the horns being cut off about three or four inches from the tip. A stopper is put on the wider end of this novel box, while the pointed end is pierced with a small hole."

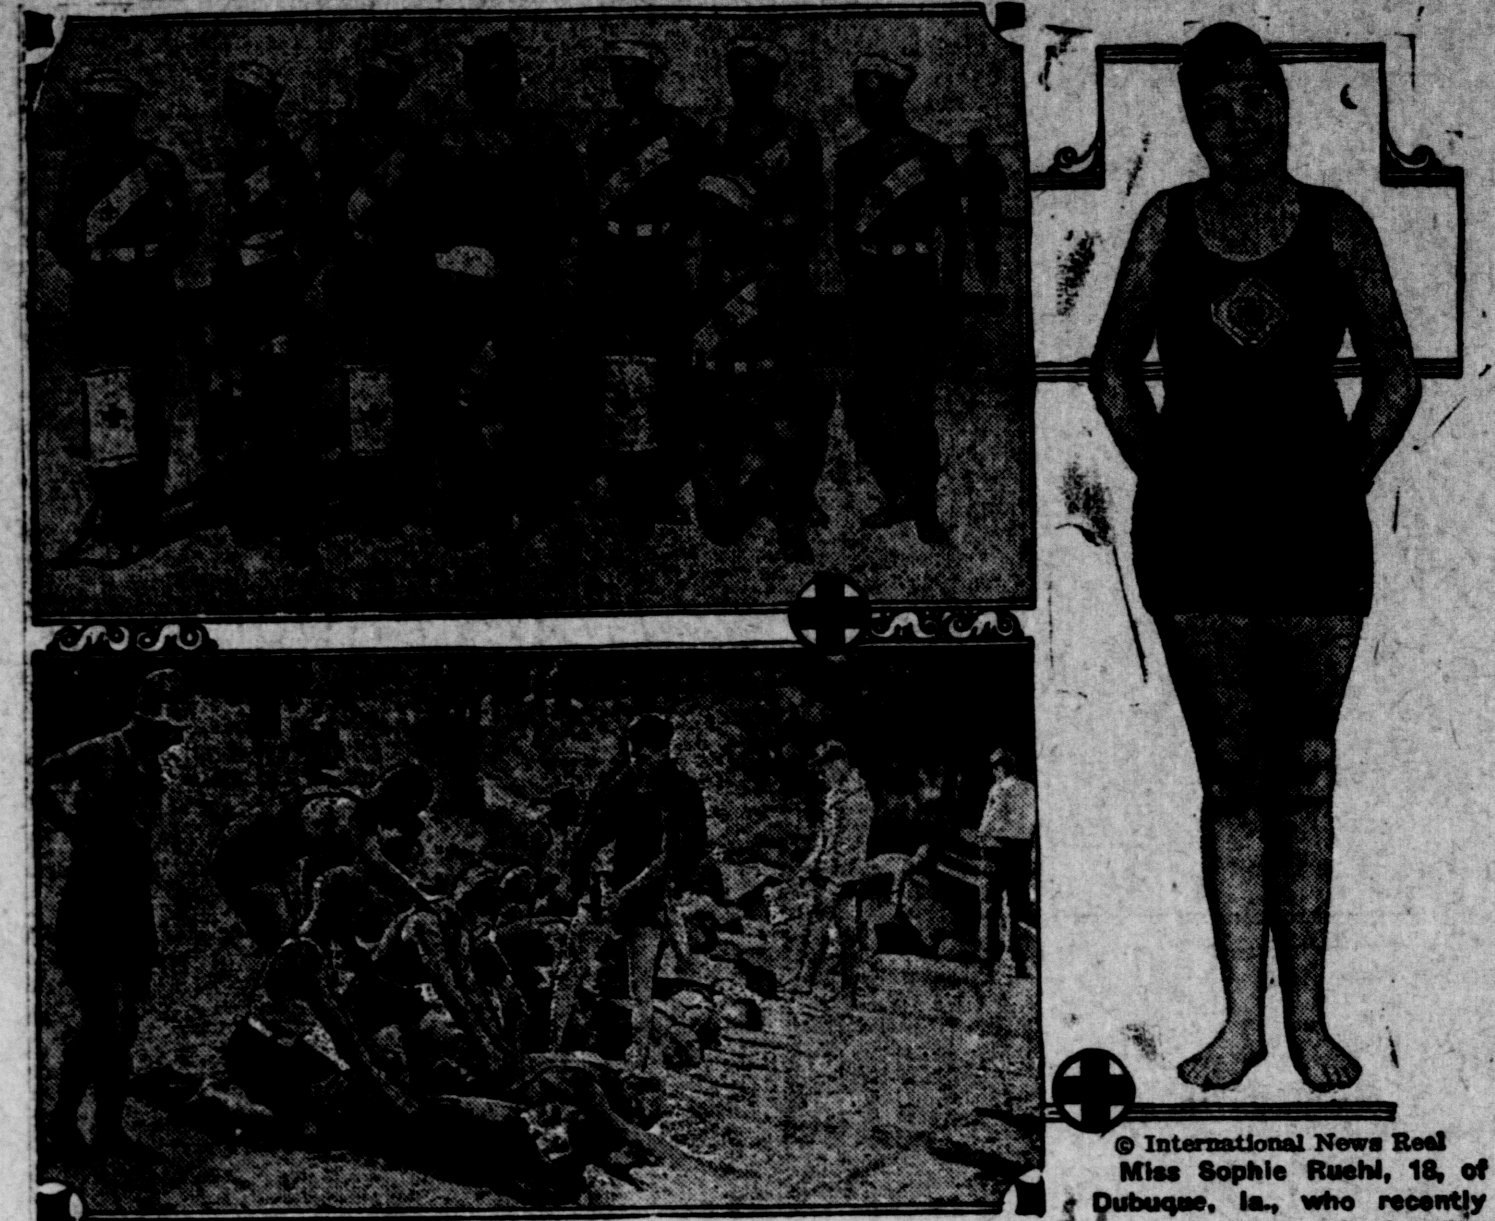

"When the snuff taker wishes to indulge in his favorite hobby he merely puts the pointed end of the horn against his nostrils and sniffs!"

Costa Rican Funeral Gay Affair.

The native Costa Rican is an inveterate lover of pleasure and never grudges a day missed from work if he can obtain entertainment by such self-denial. The common people get pleasure even from a funeral, which they always turn into quite an event, with music and a general gathering of friends. The Costa Rican is a born music lover, and almost anyone who can get possession of an instrument is able to play by ear. Small country funerals are usually preceded merely by an accordion player, who squeezes out any tune that comes into his head, ignorant of the names of all.

American Red Cross Starts Campaign to Diminish Water Tragedies in U. S.

Upper—The crack Jacksonville, Fla., Red Cross Life-Saving Corps which has many rescues to its credit. Center (standing) is Commodore W. E. Longfellow, national field agent of the corps.

Lower—Red Cross Life-Saving experts at Long Pond, Plymouth, Mass., giving instruction in modern methods of resuscitation of persons rescued from the water.

WITH the swimming and boating season already starting up in some sections of the country, the American Red Cross, through its Life-Saving Corps, is inaugurating an intensive campaign to lower the appalling loss of life in the United States through drowning. Statistics it has compiled show that in 1921, 6,489 men, women and children died in the waters of the United States through accidents, while during the last ten years the total of such deaths has reached almost 60,000.

The means by which the Red Cross will carry on its fight against water accidents will be extension of the Life-Saving instruction it provides through its own experts or fosters through community Life-Saving campaigns. Already 439 Red Cross Chapters in continental United States are providing Life-Saving instruction, and it is purposed to greatly increase the number.

In particular will the Red Cross strive to reach the children. Of the more than 27,000 certificated Life-Savers enrolled in the Red Cross Life-Saving Corps, 10,000 are Juniors and a quota of 21,000 additional Junior Life-Savers has been set.

In addition to instruction provided through its Chapters, the Red Cross will conduct two large Life-Saving Institutes for the instruction of those in charge of boys' and girls' summer camps and others. These institutes will be held at Long Pond, Plymouth, Mass., and Lake Geneva, Wis., not far from Chicago.

In a message to the Chapters, Judge John Barton Payne, Chairman of the American Red Cross, says: "Too many preventable drownings occur annually. The total of 53,429 during the ten years ended with 1921 is appalling. The Red Cross is exercising one of its charter functions along lines of intense practicality in the campaign of Life-Saving which it has inaugurated, and I invoke the hearty aid of Chapter workers in carrying it to a successful conclusion."

which the scouts have kept for the last two years and cut all the grass, thinned out the canna beds and put the park in first class shape.

However the scout authorities have decided that if it will not be possible either for the city or some other organization to provide the scouts with a lawn mower, hose, and other working tools to keep it in first class shape that they will have to give it up. The scouts ask no money from the city or individuals for keeping it up but they do ask for the tools with which to do it so that those who have the scouts in charge will not have to borrow lawn mowers from different citizens. Here is hoping that the Ada News, City Beautiful Club or the Men's Bible classes, the different churches, the American Legion or some organization will come to the rescue and provide the scouts with the necessary tools so that the scouts can keep the park for the third year.

Commissioner Walter Smith and Mayor Fisher and Chas. Deaver stated that the city was without funds to provide for the same. If you like the way the scouts have kept the park for the last two years you sure have a chance now to help if we do the work the good people surely should see that we have the tools. $35.00 will turn trick, provide the scouts with the mower, water hose, rakes, hoes and other things necessary. Why not let the scouts cultivate the love for the beautiful?

RACIAL FEELING NOW THREATENING IN INDIA

(By the Associated Press)

RANGOON, May 7.—Miss Jane Addams, American sociologist, noted as the founder and head of Hull House, Chicago, has come to the conclusion in a six week's tour of British India that racial feeling is still strong and that the problem of harmonizing the various antagonistic elements is not being adequately faced at present.

When interviewed here by a representative of The Associated Press, Miss Addams said: "The question of the relation of the races is very acute in India, and has not been perfectly studied. We need to approach it with an open mind as we have approached economic and other problems. In many cases these racial prejudices are due to differences in religion. As a rule, racial antagonisms have their basis in the minds of the people, rather than in any inherent inability to live in harmony with each other."

"In larger cities," said Miss Addams, "the housing situation constitutes another difficult social problem. This is especially true of Bombay and Calcutta, where the problem has got beyond the power of the civil authorities. In this respect, however, cities are very much alike the world over. In each Indian city I have met small groups of people who are making conscientious attempts to meet the situation and to promote a higher standard of living."

Remember the scoutmasters meeting tomorrow afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 3 o'clock.

Being an accommodating adherent, Coley lead his specimen of Henry's genius to the Frisco depot at the late hour of 12 something to let the kiddies on the train see the homelike appearance the interior of his coupe presented and incidentally to serve the common need of femininity in assisting two local girls returning from Oklahoma City to their respective homes.
